

Burton Amateur Dramatic Society are delighted to announce their 2008 murder mystery nights will take place on Friday 21 and Saturday 22 November in the Burton Memorial Hall, Main Street, Burton-in-Kendal, and on Saturday 29 November in the Kirkby Lonsdale Institute.

Entitled Act of Murder, the play was written (like those previously performed by BADS) by Joan Lee, and is set in an amateur dramatic company somewhere in the north of England. As members of the cast arrive for the dress rehearsal, certain secrets start to emerge, each person has something they could feel is worth committing a murder to protect, but only one of them actually did the deed.

As usual, BADS are performing the play as dinner theatre, serving Jan's famous hot pot supper in the main interval, followed by coffee whilst the audience reviews the clues and works out whodunnit.

Act of Murder is the directorial debut of Tony Pennington, whose joins three others of his family as a member of BADS. The cast for this production are Katie Bebbington, Roger Bingham, Alison Flanders, Paula Firth, Felicity Holloway, Christine Metcalfe, Barry Morgan, Denise Pennington, Paul Rossi, and Alyson Yates.

Tickets are available now from Burton Village Store (Main St., Burton-in-Kendal) for the Burton performances, and from Sienna Contemporary Jewellery (Main St., Kirkby Lonsdale) for the Kirkby performance, at a price of £10 each, which includes supper and coffee, or you can book directly with Alyson Yates on 01524 781498.
