

PRESS RELEASE - RELEASE IMMEDIATE

Burton Amateur Dramatic Society are delighted to offer something a little different for our Spring 2009 play. Taking place on Friday 20 and Saturday 21 March in the Burton Memorial Hall (curtain up 7.30pm) we are performing Radio Time. The production is in two parts with a Pie'n'Pea Supper in between.

Part one sees the recording session at the local BBC (Burton Broadcasting Corporation) studios in front of a studio audience, of the Friday afternoon radio programmes: At the Seaside, Listen with Mummy, Treading the Boards, Techno Spot, and Poetry Corner. Part two is the Friday Night Radio Play in which Geoff and his family gather with their blind grandmother for the broadcast of the Friday Night play which Geoff himself has written, but things do not go according to plan. Disaster strikes! A power failure means the radio will not work. To avoid upsetting Grannie, who has a frail heart and who mustn't be subjected to shock or disappointment, what can they do but perform the play themselves with the aid of the visiting doctor and vicar, and abetted by a candidate in the local election and the delivery person from the nearby supermarket. Does it all descend into chaos? Does Grannie enjoy the play? Come along and find out!

Tickets are on sale now from the Burton Village Stores/Post Office, price £10 each to include supper. Numbers are limited to 90 per night so book early.

-----ends-----

NOTES FOR EDITORS:

Burton Amateur Dramatic Society was formed sometime before 1953, and performs at least twice per year, normally in Spring and Autumn in the Burton Memorial Hall, Burton-in-Kendal.

Further info from Anne Nichols on 01524 781306.

--

Cheers!

Anne Nichols, Burton Amateur Dramatic Society, Burton, Cumbria
<http://bads.burtonweb.org.uk/> - BADS Online!